WEDDED AT HIGH NOON

Miss Almira L. Gardner Becomes the Bride of Harvey Bozarth.

At high noon today occurred the wedding of Miss Almira Larrabee Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Gardner, and Mr. Harvey Bozarth of Boston, son of the late Clinton Bozarth of Cedar Falls, Iowa, at the home of the bride's parents, at 23 Wilbur street.

Although a very quiet home wedding with only the immediate relatives in attendance, the ceremony was very pretty. The home was artistically decorated with cut flowers, ferns and palms.

At the appointed hour the nuptial party proceeded to the parlor, attended only by the ring bearers, the little nephews of the bride, Everett Burton Gardner and Charles Wesley Gardner.

The bride was charmingly attired in a dainty gown of white tulle over tulle, trimmed with shadow lace, pale pink chiffon and pearls, and wore the groom's gift, a crescent of pearls. The bride's gift to the groom was a pair of plain gold cuff links.

Miss Beth Loring Neal of Portland, Me., cousin of the bride, presided at the piano and played Lohengrin's wedding march at the approach of the bridal party. The officiating clergyman was the bride's pastor, Rev. Lyle Leland Galtier of the Methodist Episcopal church who performed the ceremony according to the impressive and ritualistic service of the Methodist Episcopal church, the double ring service being used.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served by William T. Patisillo. An informal reception followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bozarth left on the 1.48 train for Boston whence they will go to Niagara Falls and other places on their honeymoon.

The bride's traveling gown was of navy blue, tailor-made, with hat to match.

The gifts were numerous, rich and beautiful and included silver, cut glass, china, linen, etc., and demonstrated the high esteem with which the young people are held. Both are very popular among their associates, the bride, who is one of Portsmouth's most popular daughters, has been very active in church work and was president of

FARMER SLAIN IN VERMONT

Wife and Hired Man Missing and It is Believed Former Has Met the Fate of Her Husband

Brattleboro, Vt., Oct. 10.—Walter Nichols, a farmer of West Guilford, 27 years old, was found murdered today in the roadway a short distance from his home. His skull had been fractured by a blow. A hammer, supposed to be the weapon used, was found under his body.

The authorities sent out a description, tonight of Irving Wesley, the hired man on the Nichols farm, who has disappeared. Nichols's wife and a bay horse and wagon are also missing.

The theory on which Sheriff C. E. Mann, who is in charge of the investigation was working tonight, was that the same hand that struck down Nichols was accountable for the absence of his wife, and that she had been lured to the woods in the vicinity to her death. On this supposition, a search of the woods will be made tomorrow.

Willard Tucker, a neighbor, who lives a quarter of a mile from the Nichols home, says that late yesterday afternoon he saw two men running along the road where Nichols' body was found, and that one of them fell and did not rise again. Later Tucker heard two shots in the woods nearby. A shotgun which Nichols kept in the house is missing.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols had no children. Until last Monday his father and mother lived with them, but at that time having sold the place to the young man, the parents moved away.

Minister Finds Body

Nichols was janitor of the Baptist church in West Guilford and it was his failure to appear at a meeting in the church last night which led to the discovery of the crime. The clergyman calling at the house today to ascertain the cause of the janitor's absence, found the place deserted and later discovered the body.

That Mrs. Nichols left the house, intending to return in a short time is indicated in the opinion of the authorities by the fact that she wore her ordinary clothes and all of her best garments were left hanging in a closet. She was 20 years old.

Whiskey, the hired man went to work for Nichols last spring. He is 30 years old and has been married and divorced. He has worked in various places in the neighborhood of Brattleboro during the last ten years.

Mrs. Nichols, mother of the rent man, said tonight that she had noticed that the hired man thought a great deal of her son's wife but she had no reason to believe that the regard was reciprocated.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Gardner and children, Springfield, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. O. Warren Neal and Miss Beth Neal of Portland, Me.

TRAIN WRECKS TROLLEY CAR

One Killed and Eleven Injured at Westfield, Conn., When Backing Train Strikes Electric

Westfield, Conn., Oct. 10.—As the result of a head-on collision on the Berlin branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad between a Middletown-bound steam train and a Meriden-bound electric car here at 8 tonight, one person was killed and 11 injured, three perhaps fatally.

The Dead.

RALPH A. BLYDENBURGH, of Middletown, city editor of the Middletown Penny Press, instantly killed.

Fatally Injured.

JOHN G. ETTEY, of Mount Vernon, OTTO ST. ARNOLD, Meriden; a waiter.

MISS FRANCES FLORIAN, Rock Fall.

Injured.

Ephraim Hines, Middletown, conductor of trolley car.

Benjamin Lord, Middletown, motor-man of trolley car.

Harry Gurlian, New Haven.

Michael Cronin, Portland.

Mrs. Robert Mathison, Middletown.

Charles Ehrman, Middletown.

Arthur Bruner, West Cornwall.

Miss Anna Dooling, Middletown.

Crash Near Depot.

The crash occurred near the local depot. There in a single line track from this place to Middletown, which branches off at a junction here, one line going to Berlin and the other to Meriden. It is said that through a misunderstanding of orders the trolley left Newfield, a few miles to the east on the single track where it should have remained on a siding. The Middletown-bound steam train got orders to proceed, it is said, and a few moments later the collision occurred on a straight track.

The steam train, as is the custom, was backing toward Middletown, with the engine pushing. The front of the trolley was smashed like an eggshell. Nearly every passenger in the trolley was injured, more or less.

Passengers on the steam train rushed out and did what they could to assist the injured.

As soon as possible the wrecked trolley was hauled on to a switch and the injured were taken to Middletown on the train. Special trolleys carried them direct to the Middlesex hospital in that city, where all the physicians in the vicinity had been summoned.

Mr. Blydenburgh was one of the best known newspaper men in central Connecticut. He was for many years city editor of the Middletown Penny Press and for more than 15 years a correspondent there of the Associated Press. He was about 50 years old and leaves a widow and a daughter.

WILL NOT SPEAK FOR PANKHURST

Dr. Anna Shaw Wanted $1000 for Her Cause—English Woman Gets $1500.

New York, Oct. 10.—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association, today cancelled her engagement to speak at the meeting guaranteed to welcome Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant English leader here next week. Dr. Shaw said her unwillingness to speak was due to the fact that Mrs. Pankhurst had been guaranteed $1500 and part of the gate receipts, she, (Dr. Shaw) had been unable to procure a guarantee of $1000 for her cause.

"I do not object to Mrs. Pankhurst receiving any price she can secure for her lectures here," reads a statement issued by Dr. Shaw, "but I feel very strongly that co-operation implies an obligation on both sides. It does not mean that one party shall receive all the benefit while the other party is simply used to further the interests of the party benefited."

ARREST MEMBERS BY WHOLESALE

Signers of Resolutions of Warning to Huerta Land in Jail.

Mexico City, Oct. 10.—One hundred and ten members of the chamber of deputies who had signed resolutions of warning to President Huerta as the result of the disappearance of Dr. Refugio Dominguez, senator for Chihuahua, last night, were arrested tonight and lodged in the penitentiary.

Five other prisoners who signed the resolution were absent tonight when a cordon of troops were thrown about the legislative buildings and several hundred soldiers invaded the chamber.

The arrests followed a demand by President Huerta that the chamber withdraw the resolution which carried the threat that the deputies would abandon the capital owing to an alleged lack of guarantees for their personal safety.

In anticipation of possible trouble, heavy patrols of troops are on the streets tonight. The rapid fire guns which were posted in the interior courts of the palace in February are again in place and quantities of ammunition are at hand.

CORNER YEGGS IN SANDOWN WOODS

Men Who Attempted Post-office Break Are Believed Surrounded.

Sandown, Oct. 10.—Two men sought as members of the trio of rascals whose attempt to rob the postoffice at Salisbury, Mass., yesterday morning was followed by the killing of Constable Willie Heath were believed to be surrounded in the woods here tonight. The officers who have pursued the men for two days, expected to make their capture after daylight.

Two men came out of the woods today in the town of East Kingston, where they purchased sandwiches and cigarettes. One of the pair was marked with scars in the same manner as one of the Salisbury bandits. Seeing that they were observed with suspicion, the men took to the woods again, pursued by officers. They fled to this town where police from Haverhill and Amesbury surrounded them. At a late hour tonight, the officers said they were certain the men were still in the woods.

MAY LOSE MEN AT THE FORTS

Rumor They Will Go To Portland.—Commanding Officer Knows Nothing of Transfer

For several days a rumor has been going the rounds that the 156th Company, Coast Artillery at Fort Constitution will be transferred to Fort Preble in the Portland Harbor for the winter owing to the poor condition of the living quarters for the men. Today the commanding officer, Captain Glasgow, when asked by The Herald man as to the report said he had no knowledge of the company going to be moved, and the report wherever it came from was news to him.

Outside of this rumor members of the coast artillery stationed in Portland harbor who have been in this city for a furlough state that the quarters at Fort Preble are being enlarged for the purpose of quartering the additional soldiers to come from the Portsmouth district. It is believed among the men of the 156th Company that they are to be sent somewhere. If this report has any foundation, it is time that some action should be taken to prevent it. The city cannot afford to lose the company and the war department cannot afford to leave such a fine fortification without the necessary detachment of soldiers.

Instead of cutting out the company there, three or four more should be sent to the post as was remarked by Senator Hollis on his visit to the reservation. As to the question of quarters for the men, it is hard to understand why the department purchased such valuable land at New Castle and the Sagamore, Rd., besides put in one of the finest fortifications outside of New York Harbor at Fort Stark and go along year after year without the expenditure of a dollar to provide decent quarters for the men.

LOST HIS POCKETBOOK.

Pickpockets Operate at Railroad Station When Knowles Passes Through.

It seems that some modern men accompanied Joseph Knowles, the primitive man on his trip from Portland to Boston on Thursday and plied their vocation as pickpockets at the local railroad station. John Gillen, who was at the station to see Knowles pass through was relieved of his pocketbook containing $7.

There is a scarcity of ice with the local dealers, the most of whom are obliged to purchase their supply from out of town dealers.

Accessories

Frocks for some time have been so simple in line that they require "dressing-up"—ornaments, if you please—so thinkers of dress have been so stimulated in their thinking that what there is not in the way of dainty, pretty, simple, and elaborate things such as hair decoration, neckwear, scarfs, kerchiefs, imitation jewelry—so much the vogue with the rich—is easier to name than the numerous items there are.

FISH AND GAME STATUTE

Appears to Have Been Printed Wrong—Test Case at Canaan.

A man and woman from Enfield were brought before Judge Frank D. Currier in the district court at Canaan Thursday afternoon, charged with shooting muskrats and having them in possession out of season. Their counsel produced proof that on the cover of the abstract of the fish and game laws published by authority of the governor and council, and also on posters published by the fish and game commissioner, the open season appears as from October 1, and he argued that as no sufficient public effort had been made to show that these statements were untrue, his clients acting upon their knowledge of them should be discharged; a motion which the judge granted.

ATHLETICS MAKE IT THREE GAMES TO ONE

Get to Another Giant Pitcher and Win Early in Game.

The Athletics won the third game from the New York in Philadelphia on Friday by again hitting the ball when hits were needed. At the end of the fifth inning they had the game clinched by six large scores and it looked like an easy thing until the Giants took a brace in the seventh and scored two runs. In the eighth they hit for two singles and with two men on Merkle joined the "Honier Club" and wallowed one for a home run scoring three runs, but Bender here tightened up and shut them out in the ninth. The score by innings:

First Inning, First Half.

Snodgrass popped out to Butler. Doyle went out on a high one to Strunk. Barry threw out Fletcher. It was a quickly played inning. No runs, no hits, no errors.

First Inning, Second Half.

Snodgrass went out to play center while Shaffer replaced Herzog at third. Herzog not having made a hit in the three previous games. Murphy filed out to Snodgrass. O'Driscoll shot a long hit into rightfield for three bases. He smashed the first ball pitched. The New York players gathered around O'Driscoll to encourage him. With Eddie Collins up a run is likely; the crowd cheered him. Demaree first pitch to Collins was a ball. The second pitch Collins fouled off. O'Driscoll was out at the plate when Merkle took Collins' grounder and then threw to McLean, who touched the runner as he slid into the plate. Collins stole second while Demaree held the ball. Demaree then threw to Merkle, who threw to second was too late to catch Collins. Baker out on a high foul to Shaffer. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning, First Half.

Burns filed out to Murphy. Shaffer fanned. Bender finding his work apart by keeping the ball around Shaffer's neck. Murray was hit on the arm by a pitched ball and went to first, not being at Bender. McLean singled to right, sending Murray to third. Merkle fouled out to McLean, who took the ball over near the Giants dugout. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning, Second Half.

McLean shot a Texas league in center, which the Bumping Snodgrass could not reach. It was a lucky hit for McLean. Strunk out sacrificing Demaree to Merkle. Demaree used a slow drop ball on the outside corner of the plate. Merkle dropped Barry's ball after a good run. The official scorer gave it an error. McLean scored on Barry's long two bagger to left. Barry claimed that Merkle interfered with him as he rounded first base, but the claim was not allowed. Shaffer walked, after Demaree had two strikes on him. Bender filed out to Burns. Murphy filed out to Snodgrass. One run, two hits, one error.

Third Inning, First Half.

Demaree filed out to Murphy in right field. Snodgrass out bunting. Bender to McLean. Doyle filed out to Strunk. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning, Second Half.

Herzog went out to play third base and Shaffer went to centerfield, replacing Snodgrass, whose stretched leg began to bother him again. Demaree took O'Driscoll's popper and threw him out at first. Burns caught Collins' fly. Doyle took care of Baker, throwing him out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning, First Half.

Fletcher made vigorous objection when Umpire Egan killed a strike on him. Fletcher filed out to Collins. Burns popped up a fly to Baker. Bender appeared to have more "smoke" than during his first game against the Giants. He broke his first game against the Athletics and then shot a fast one shoulder high across the plate. Shaffer fanned for the second time and angrily threw his hat toward the bench. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning, Second Half.

Doyle threw out McLean. Demaree's slow ball bothered the Athletic batters not a little. Strunk bounced a hit off Herzog's legs. McLean almost caught Strunk off first by a quick throw to Merkle. Barry singled to left and Strunk took third on Shaffer's throw to catch Strunk at third. Barry went to second. The New York infield then drew in. Strunk and Barry scored on Schanck's single to center. Schanck took second on Shaffer's throw to the plate to catch Barry. Schanck went to third on a passed ball. Schanck scores when Merkle made a miff of Bender's grounder. Murphy popped out to Doyle. O'Driscoll singled to center. Bender going to second. McLean threw out Collins at first. Three runs four hits, one error.

Fifth Inning, First Half.

Murray walked. Chief Bender pitching four wide balls in succession. McLean got a single to center and Murray went to third. Cooper ran for McLean. Schanck almost caught Doyle or snapping off first base with a snappy throw. Merkle fanned. McConnelk batted in place of Demaree. O'Driscoll caught McConnelk's fly after a good run toward the diamond. It cut off an almost sure hit and a run for New York. Cooper out sliding. Schanck in Collins. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fifth Inning, Second Half.

Marquard now pitching for New York. Baker fanned. Marquard kept the ball on the far corner of the plate for Baker, and very low. Marquard threw out McLean. Marquard lost control and Strunk walked on faultily pitched balls. Barry got a two base hit. Strunk going to third. Burns made a gallant try for the "it on the run, but he overran it. Strunk and Barry scored on Schanck's single to center. The Athletics fans cried derisively "Put in Matty." Marquard threw out Bender. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning, First Half.

Barry threw out Herzog. Doyle bent backward violently and went out on a strike. As Fletcher came to the plate he jokingly made a move as if to hit Umpire Egan on the head with his bat. Fletcher out on a fly to Strunk. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning, Second Half.

Doyle tossed out Murphy at first. O'Driscoll struck out. Wagner throwing him out at first. Collins popped out to Fletcher. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning, First Half.

Shaffer singled. Shaffer popped to Collins. Murray singled. Wagner fanned. Burns and Murray pulled off a double steal. Merkle hit a home scoring Burns and Murray ahead of him. Marquard out at first. Three runs.

Seventh Inning, Second Half.

Baker filed to Herzog. McLean fanned to Herzog. Strunk out at first. No runs.

Eighth Inning, First Half.

Herzog singled. Doyle forced Herzog. Fletcher forced Doyle. Burns doubled, scoring Fletcher. Shaffer singled, scoring Burns. Murray out at first. Two runs.

Eighth Inning, Second Half.

Neither side scored in the ninth in which the Athletics were again the winner. The score by innings:

Philadelphia . . . 0 1 0 3 2 0 0 0 — 5
New York . . . 0 0 0 0 0 2 3 0 — 5

WILLIE BROKE THE WINDOW

"Willie broke a window!" You can hear it in the street. Hear the children marvel at the most prodigious feat.
"Willie broke a window pane!" they shout the news along.
And Willie is the hero of a large admiring throng.
Didn't go to do it, but the stone it kind of slipped.
Kind of sailed out crooked like and through the pane it slipped.
And all the little girls and boys they raised a mighty yell.
"Willie broke a window light! Don't anybody tell!"
Willie broke the window and he hol-lered good and loud.
When mother took and strapped him, but he's feeling pretty proud;
And father, while his language was a little bit profane,
Father's kind of proud himself that Willie broke the pane.

Just a baby yesterday creeping on the floor,
Staying close to mother's side or playing around the door.
Now he's broke a window and his mother's heart is sore;
Growing up to boyhood he's her little babe no more.

ANOTHER MEXICAN BATTLE WITH REAL GUNS

Mexico City, Mex., Oct. 10.—The fall ure of General Truce Aubert to get to the city of Torreon in line to relieve it—a mission upon which he set out from Saltillo nearly a month ago with a large force of Federal troops—is explained by the fact that the greater part of his 2000 men deserted him before he had completed half of his journey. He is reported to have reached Madero, twenty five miles to the east of Torreon, when news of the evacuation of that city reached him. Immediately the vanguard of the retreating Federal troops came into view General Aubert's men fled with all their arms and ammunition. General Aubert is said today to be at Hidalgo, fifty miles west of Saltillo, to which point he retreated with men who had evacuated Torreon.

General Alvarez who started with 1000 men, two glee guns and a number of pieces of light artillery to take the city of Durango from the rebels and whose defeat caused the evacuation of Torreon fell into an ambush at La Loma thirty miles southwest of Torreon. Relying upon information that the rebels had left the vicinity he moved forward. Suddenly he found both his advance and his retreat cut-off in a canon by heavy forces of rebels who poured in a sharp fire from both sides of the pass. General Alvarez is said to have made a stout resistance and he managed to get word back to Torreon asking for reinforcements.

Another story of the same fight is to the effect that the Federal troops under General Alvarez broke and fled as soon as the first shot had been fired. General Alvarez who was regarded as one of the bravest officers in the Federal army was captured with his staff and all are said to have been executed on the spot by the rebels.
After the battle the rebel troops with the captured artillery proceeded to Torreon where they found that the Federal garrison had already evacuated the city. Out of the total garrison at Torreon estimated at 4000 men 1800 have now been accounted for as being at Hidalgo. It is said there were forty eight pieces of artillery in Torreon, none of which was saved.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS TO BE SEEN IN "DOLLARS AND SENSE"

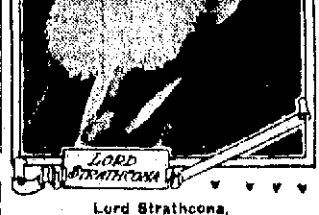

In "Dollars and Sense," which Colman and Harris will present at the Portsmouth Theatre next Wednesday Oct. 16, with Douglas Fairbanks as the star, Porter Emerson Brown, author of "A Fool There Was," gives evidence that he knows the inside workings of wild-cat speculation schemes as a Cook's tourist knows his trade.

In this new play, a comedy this time, the author shows how the unscrupulous promoter ensures the unwary investor, who is in earnest search of "something for nothing" by the usual device of glowing prospectuses and other deceptive literature until the seekers of enormous profits are deprived of every penny of their savings. The play is written in a humorous vein, yet there is the pathetic side of the man or woman who is reduced to penury through the dishonest machinations of financial schemers.

A boy from the country and his childhood sweetheart are working in the office of a firm of promoters. The girl is taken to dinner by the president of the firm, who is a good-looking plausible fellow with the air and the manner of a gentleman and who turns her head by the glitter of New York's restaurant life, until she is unable to see how he could do anything dishonest, even though confronted by proofs. The boy and the girl have managed to obtain their vacation together and they visit their old home in a Massachusetts village. The young man, who will be 25 years old in a few days, is to claim a legacy of twenty thousand dollars, but he finds upon his arrival that the trustee of the legacy has invested not only this sum but all the money that the parents of both children could scrape together in the same fraudulent corporation foisted upon the investing public by the employers of the boy and the girl.

Although the blow is hard to bear Steve Blodgett rises nobly to the cause and determines to fight his employers, not only to get back the money his people have sunk but to save the thousands of other credulous folk who have put their all into this worthless stock. How he accomplishes his ends, securing the co-operation of government officials and winning back the girl of his heart is best told by the brilliant playwright in the play, which is said to contain many witty epigrams in the vernacular and sparkling repartee and situations of surprising interest.

Douglas Fairbanks the star of "Dollars and Sense" is one of the best known and best liked of the younger generation of American actors. His breezy, buoyant personality and frank natural methods have made a strong appeal to many playgoers. His leading woman, Patricia Collinge, is an Irish actress of great charm and beauty; and as Youth in "Everywoman," a role she created, she first flashed on the horizon as an artist of talent and promise. Mrs. Stuart Robinson, widow of the famous classic comedian, is a comedienne of rare gifts. Archie Boyd, since the demise of James A. Hearn and Denham Thompson, ranks as the foremost interpreter of American rustic characters. Charles Brin Verner, an actor of the old school, is a consummate artist. Others in the large company of recognized ability and reputation are Gariner Crane, Edward Gillespie, Frank Monroe, Grace Goodall, Mrs. Pauline Duffield, etc.

Lord Strathcona.

He will retire early next year, when he will have reached his ninety-fourth year. He probably will be succeeded by Clifford Sifton, former Canadian minister of the Interior.

PRETTY ON DRESSING TABLE

Novel Pincushion Altogether Different From the Designs With Which We Are All So Familiar.

Pretty suggestions for decorating the dressing table are always welcome and our sketch illustrates a novel pincushion, into the center of which may be fitted a small vase containing flowers. The cushion itself is circular in shape and somewhat resembles a lifebuoy on a small scale. Diagram A illustrates this and diagram B shows a side view of the cushion and indicates the thickness in which it should be made.

The cushion is covered with pale blue soft silk and trimmed at the edge with a broad hemstitched frill of the same material. A lace frill would look very pretty and might take the place of the silk if preferred, and the cushion could of course be carried out in any other pale shade of color than that suggested, to match possibly or harmonize with other colors in the vicinity.

If the thickness of the cushion is increased a little, a small glass can be used in the place of the vase and may be fitted into the cushion so that it is not visible, and this will add rather to the pretty effect of this decorative little article.

Save the Old Farmhouse.

There is much good news just now about New England houses that were built one hundred years or more ago. Local and national societies are buying and restoring houses of historic note. The historic society at Marblehead, for instance, has just burned the mortgage on its fine Lee mansion. The successes in getting and refitting venerable houses in Ipswich, Salem, Cambridge, Quincy and other places farther from Boston are well known and commended; these several sanctuaries are becoming in their turn arguments for having other coeval buildings of merit. But despite the growing interest in old time houses, every week brings the bad news that such or such a town has lost another of its ancient landmarks, by fire or by demolition.—Boston Herald.

Crime Doesn't Pay.

There are two lessons to be drawn from the tragic ending of the lawless career of the 19-year-old boy who, having escaped a few weeks ago from the Eastern penitentiary, where he was serving a term for the murder of a policeman, held at bay for two hours the other night a force of police who had run him to earth in Wilmington and finally after a desperate battle killed himself with his last bullet. The first of these lessons is that a life of crime doesn't pay. The other is that the police forces which society organizes and establishes to protect itself against those who rebel against institutions founded on the maintenance of law and order are mighty hard to battle.—Philadelphia Press.

Platform Never Satisfactory.

It is probably true that no candidate for governor in Massachusetts or any other state ever went before the people with a platform with which he was absolutely satisfied in all particulars. Mr. Gardner now invites the hostility or at best lukewarmness in support of the organization which he expects to represent, by defying the convention action and declaring that the state committee may not assign him for addresses before the people unless it be with the expectation that he shall use these planks of his as part of his party argument.—Portland Press.

Economy in Kitchens.

It is reported that a fund of $500,000 has been raised by the big packers to teach American women how to save in their kitchens. This is a movement intended to prevent waste and promote economy. American business men insist upon economical systems of conducting their operations, and then go to their homes, where waste is the rule in every department. Domestic science is now being taught in most of our large public schools, and in time this instruction may result in material benefit. But until the American housekeeper puts brains into her housework and studies the art of saving, the high cost of living problem will not be solved.—Kansas City Inquirer.

A Dangerous Pastime.

The fact that there are numerous dangerous intersections of streets in the business section of the city, does not in the least diminish the speed of many automobiles, and sooner or later a bad accident must result. This is particularly true as to where Hanover street crosses Vaughan street and of late there have been several close calls. The rate of speed that some drivers send their machines through Vaughan street, especially after nightfall, is not conducive to public safety and some measures should be taken to stop the reckless driving before a fatality takes place.

Criticism Unwarranted.

It is pretty clear that most of the attacks on American administration in the Philippines have been inspired by motives of personal revenge, since impartial observers have generously testified to the magnificent work done in the islands in the way of sanitation, education, road making and industrial and agricultural development. The progress made speaks for itself and is an unassailable testimonial to the efficiency of the insular government.—Providence Tribune.

Bird Is for Biennial Elections.

If Charles Sumner Bird can change the situation in Massachusetts so that the people can elect a Governor once in four years and a legislature every two years, he ought to win. How the people stand the annual bunco game there is more than the people of this state can understand. The poor old Bay State has many old out-of-date laws. If Bird can remedy these matters he ought to win.

Heartbreaking Moment In Ten Inning Struggle Of Second World's Series Game and General View.

Thousands of baseball fans who jammed Sidin park, Philadelphia, eyed like madmen during the critical moments of the second game of the world's series between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics. The top picture here gives a general view of the field looking from the grand stand with the ten inning game in progress. Plank, the Athletic pitcher, is trying to catch Doyle, captain of the Giants, off first base. A section of the bleachers is seen. In the bottom picture is pictured one of the most exciting plays in the game. Strunk is seen being tagged out at the plate by McLean on a perfect throw from Wilton in the sensational rally of the Athletics in the ninth inning.

COURT SCORES DRINKING JUROR

New York Judge Lashes Man in Box After Verdict Is Returned.

Judge Swann in general session last night accused a juror in a cage on trial before him of drinking too heavily during the progress of the trial. The juror was out for several hours before it brought in a verdict of guilty, convicting Joseph Quatz and Joseph Bredin of a serious charge brought against them by a woman. The jury recommended them to the mercy of the court.

Before discharging the jurors Judge Swann turned to them and accused one of their members of being addicted to drink.

"It has appeared to many of us," he said, "that you have been under the influence of liquor during the progress of this trial. What do you say?"

"I do not deny that I drank," said the juror, "but I deny that I was under the influence of liquor."

"I am informed said Judge Swann that you were obviously affected by liquor—that you seemed to have been feeling your drink."

"I haven't had more than two or three drinks since I have been sitting in this cage," answered the juror, indignantly.

"I don't like to misjudge you," began Judge Swann.

"It may be from prejudice that I am so accused," retorted the juror.

Judge Swann called upon the rest of the jurors to express an opinion as to whether their companion had been drinking during the trial. Most of them agreed that they thought his estimate rather modest. One of them said that one reason the verdict was so long delayed was that the offending juror had refused to consider a verdict of guilty unless he were assured that the other jurors would concur with him in recommending a light sentence.

There was a brief pause after the last juror had voiced his opinion and counsel for the two prisoners moved that a mistrial be declared, as it was evident that the court thought that one of the jurors to have been incompetent. That brought more wrath down upon the head of the blustering juror.

SEN. GALLINGER TALKS.

Would Like to See the Good Old Times of Long Ago.

John Lorance relates the following story in the Advertiser's Washington letter:

"How tame politics are these days compared to what they used to be when I was young," sighed Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire the other day. "I marvel sometimes over present conditions when I think what New Hampshire was a pivotal state several decades ago and had its state elections in March at which time it set the pace for the other states in the final voting."

"How the whole nation used to wait to vote in these days! The greatest orators that the country afforded used to visit us. The ablest Republicans were matched by the ablest Democrats."

"No town was too small to hear one of the elect in the oratorical world. We were made personally familiar with the men who ruled the nation. We could not find halls big enough to hold the multitudes that flocked to hear these men. A great factor in national politics was New Hampshire then."

But the state has decided not to remain pivotal. It is preferred to decide its state elections on state issues rather than on national issues. The elections were ordered to be held in November. We set the pace for other pivotal states on this score. Most have become November states."

"But what a difference it made with us in the campaigning? We had been in fact spoiled. We missed those great orators and ever since it has been hard to stir our halls with campaign rallies. I sometimes wish those old times were back again."

HAD GOOD LUCK.

John G. Tobey returned this Saturday morning from a running trip at Glenwood, Me. He brought back with him, as the result of his prowess, a fine buck weighing upwards of 200 pounds. A venison dinner will be in order for some of his friends.

CURRENT OPINION

THE CHURCH AND PUBLIC HEALTH.

No social agency is more earnest in its demand upon the church for co-operation than public health, and no agency offers a greater return for such co-operation. Public health asks the church to join hands with it in giving men better bodies, and it promises that when men's bodies shall be stronger, their spirits will be nobler. Public health asks the church to assist it in making sanitary the community to which the church ministers; and it pledges the experience of the world to show that when this is done, none will benefit more than the church. Other things equal, the healthy man is the moral man, and the sanitary community is the spiritual community.

The first means of co-operation on the part of the church is in preaching the dignity of the human person, the sanctity of the individual body. This will enable the church to justify the health officer in his demand for a sanitary community—will, indeed, make that demand irresistibly logical. If the body is sacred, then the body deserves a sanitary surrounding and depends upon it. The permanence of our fight for better health must rest, in part at least, upon an awakened public conscience which will view disease as second only to sin, cleanliness as next to godliness.

The church should, in a very practical way, illustrate the necessity of sanitation by being itself a model of sanitation. It should be well ventilated, well kept, supplied with proper outhouses and with a safe supply of drinking water. Many of our rural churches fall far short of this. Cleaned only when filth becomes unbearable, ventilated by chance or accident, generally without tiny outhouses and supplying water from a rusty bucket and a dirty tin dipper, the church oftentimes is a focus of infection. If it is to stand as the evangel of good health, it must be sanitary. If it is to preach the gospel of fresh air, it must be well ventilated.—Dr. Ennon W. Williams, Health Commissioner of Virginia.

LOCAL MAN IS APPOINTED

Dr. John H. Neal Member of Board of Arbitration and Conciliation.

Concord, Oct. 10.—At a meeting of Governor Feltner and his council today Francis J. Hurley of Manchester was appointed a member of the board of arbitration and conciliation, created through an act passed at the last session of the legislature. Mr. Hurley, who is business agent of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, will serve until July 1, 1916. His appointment was recommended by the State Federation of Labor.

The other members of the new commission appointed today are George A. Penney of Claremont, who was recommended by the New Hampshire Manufacturers' association, and Dr. John H. Neal of Portsmouth. Mr. Penney will serve until July 1, 1914, and Dr. Neal until July 1, 1915.

The resignation of Judge Robert M. Wallace of Milford as chief justice of the superior court was accepted and Judge Robert Pike of Dover was appointed to succeed him.

Discuss State Highway. The governor and his council were busy this morning and far into the afternoon with a hearing on the laying out of the proposed highway from Keene to Portsmouth.

The dispute today was on the route that the road would take between Peterboro and Keene. Two routes have been presented; one, directly over Temple mountain, and one through the towns of Greenfield and Lyndeboro. Practically the whole western part of the state was represented at the hearing.

Should the route go through Lyndeboro and Greenfield, it would be a little over five miles longer, but it was contended that this is the most traveled of the two routes. John Jameson and Ex-Governor Goodell look the lead in defending this route.

The route over Temple Mountain came in for considerable support, not only because it was the shorter of the two, but also because it is the route that the drafters of the bill for the road intended that it should follow.

Harry Gregg of Nashua and Senator George C. Tolford of Wilton were among those who spoke in favor of this route.

No decision was announced and the matter was taken under consideration.

Pardon Manchester Man. When the governor and council came together in conference a pardon was granted Arthur McNelis of Manchester, who is serving a term of from five to seven years in the state prison on the charge of attempted rape. He was sentenced in September, 1909, at the superior court of Hillsboro county on a plea of not guilty and was committed to the state prison in November. A pardon was asked for at this time because for the past two years he has been sick and has spent the greater part of the time in the prison hospital and has been unable to work. He was represented by Thomas H. Madigan of Manchester.

New Hampshire College, Durham, Oct. 10.—The freshmen class was conspicuous here this morning by its absence. Instructors appeared in class rooms and waited for students in vain. It eventually became known that the incoming first year men and women had gone to Dover to have their class picture taken.

This photographic work is, if possible, always interrupted by the sophomores, but the freshmen outwitted them today. By train, by automobile, by horse and on foot, the new students gradually and unostentatiously filtered out of town last night. Some went to their rooms and to bed, only to rise again at 8 o'clock in the morning and walk to Dover.

About the time their rivals became aware of their disappearance the class had gathered and dispersed five miles away and the photographer was developing his plates.

SULZER'S FATE WITH JUDGES

Court to Meet Monday for Its Decision—Parker Flays
Governor.

Albany, Oct. 10.—Gov. William Sulzer's fate rests with his judges tonight. The final arguments of counsel for and against him were delivered today before the high court of impeachment. The court then adjourned until next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Upon reconvening, the court will decide upon its plan of balloting, whether it shall be in open or in executive session, and then take up the constitutional objections to the impeachment charges raised by counsel for the Governor. If the judges hold adversely in whole or in part to the contentions of Sulzer's counsel, a vote on his guilt or innocence will follow. The next question will be whether he should be removed from office. Should this be decided affirmatively, the judges will vote on whether additional punishment, disqualification from ever holding public office in this state again, shall be meted out to him.

Bitter and Kind.

No more bitter criticism has been made of the Governor and, no kinder words have been said in his behalf than were heard in the courtroom today.

Judge Alton B. Parker, a deliberate constitutional lawyer who had argued the legal aspects of the case for the board of managers, suddenly switched his tactics today and flayed the Governor with a fire of invective and accusation of criminal wrong doing. The Governor, he said, had sought to hide himself behind his wife's skirts. This is the judge's scathing denunciation:

"Defiance, defiance, justification, perversion, denunciation of his accusers, attempts to suppress and falsify testimony and efforts to cast the blame elsewhere, each in turn, has been stripped from his quaking flesh until he stands now naked before this court without a rag of his attempted vindication clinging to his deformed and mutilated personhood. Every disguise has been torn from his back, from the petticoat in which he trusted for safety to the armor of defiance in which he threatened to attack and expose a political leadership to which we have found him suing for a merciful obliteration of his misdeeds and offering the bribe of submission."

A Saul, Not Paul.

But it remained for Alty. Brackett, who preaches occasionally, in closing the case for the board of managers, to bring down on the head of the Governor the most severe castigation of the entire trial. He declared that former Senator Stillwell, now in Sing Sing prison and who while on trial was advised by Sulzer to resign and confess, might have learned crime from Sulzer. "Taking his cue a comparison made by Senator Hunsman between Sulzer and Saul of Tarsus, he said:

"Can you imagine Paul telephoning to Gamaliel that he was the same old Saul, and 'can't you make it more than $7500?'"

He referred to a conversation Sulzer had with Allan R. Ryan, a son of Thomas F. Ryan, in which, it was testified, Sulzer said: "Tell your father I am the same old Saul."

Brackett then thundered on: "Oh Saul! Oh Saul! Persecutor of the saints, but the greatest of the apostles; what foolishness has been attempted through their ears because of that sudden conversation of yours on the way to Damascus. There is many a man that tries to liken himself to Paul, when the only likeness is to that of Saul. Saul saw a light, but he respected it. He repented of his sins. Saul, having seen the light, announced that from that moment he renounced the devil and all his works."

"He did not go around trying to subvert perjury. When he got together the few Christians in the upper chamber, wherever he could get them to preach the Word after his conversion, he did not whisper to any of them that if he was shown, he hoped he would be easy on him. Before he opened the meeting with prayer, he did not call one of them aside and see if he could send word to tamper with the court that was going to try him, and he finally won a glorious martyrdom by sincerity and not posturing. By honest work, not by many professions; by doing the work and not by being a rank hypocrite."

To Judge D. Cady Herriek, chief of the Governor's counsel, fell the task of saying the final word for the accused executive. His remarks stood out in strange contrast to the vitriolic attack of Judge Parker. The Governor was pictured by Herriek as an honest but eccentric man, to whom even the thought of committing a crime was a thing apart. The attorney did not seek to excuse the Governor's method in obtaining campaign subscriptions, admitted that Sulzer had low ethical standards, but argued that no criminal intent had been shown, and therefore the charges had not been sustained. He said:

"There are some things that a decent, manly man cannot do to save himself, some things that a man of even low ethical standards cannot shield himself by. Which would you do? Run the risk of losing the empty honor of being Governor, or lose the respect of every decent and honorable man in the whole United States by saving yourself at the expense of the honor and integrity of one you are bound to love and protect?"

GOV. AND COUNCIL BUSY

Hearing on the Keene to Portsmouth State Highway.

A hearing on the layout of the proposed Keene to Portsmouth road kept Governor Parker and his council busy on Friday.

The dispute relates wholly to the location of the road between Peterborough and Nashua. A certain section of the community in that part of the state wants it to pass over temple mountain, while the others desire to have it run down the valley of the Souhegan.

Practically the whole of the west side of the state was represented at the hearing, and there was an interesting and lively discussion. Decision was reserved.

Rev. William F. Pondergust of this city, who has for several years been stationed at Concord and who was sent to Enfield in the recent transfer as pastor, will also have charge of the churches at Bristol, Cannon, Wilnot and Potter Place as missions.

RICH BANKER TO BE DEPORTED

"I Should Worry," Says Parisian,
While Mademoiselle
Ejaculates "D-n."

New York, Oct. 10.—When Plinio Silva da Prado, a wealthy young banker of Paris, reached this port on the steamship Imperator he was supremely disgusted because the immigration officials sent him to Ellis Island as a possible undesirable alien.

At da Prado brought many trunks and much money—in fact—but he was also possessed of a fetching Parisian traveling companion he had permitted his fellow passengers to believe was his wife. The two occupied a suite de luxe and had been constantly together.

To the immigration inspectors the banker frankly admitted that his companion was Miss Yvonne Grovard and that his wife and children were in Paris. He and the young woman had traveled much together for six years, he added, and saw no harm in it.

When told that he and Miss Grovard must appear before the board of special inquiry, M. da Prado yawned. He was much more exercised for fear the first letter of his surname might be spelled with a capital D. He admitted that such an error would cause him grave concern. When the ship news reporters questioned the banker he shrugged his shoulders.

"I should worry," as you say in this country, he exclaimed. "I've much much money, very much money." The reporters thought mademoiselle might be perturbed, but they were mistaken.

"Madam says she should care a damn," announced her escort after he had conferred with her in French.

The young woman, she is about 20, plump and of creamy complexion—searched her gown for a gold cigarette case and plucked therefrom a cigarette. From then until she and the banker were placed aboard the Imperator, she puffed rings of smoke upward.

The board of special inquiry ordered them deported, and they will return Saturday on the Imperator. In the meantime they will remain on Ellis Island.

M. da Prado is a native of Brazil and is about 25 years old. He is a graduate of Harvard University.

WIFE SLAYER SURRENDERS

Makes Sure Victim Is Dead and Then Walks Into Police Station.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 10.—Henry Grasse charged with the murder of his divorced wife, Mrs. Nettie Appleby, last Wednesday surrendered to the police at 8:45 tonight.

Grasse who presented a forlorn appearance after his two days' wanderings said that he had passed the time since Wednesday forenoon, when the tragedy occurred in the woods around Mount Hope avenue, in the northern part of the city, hoping that he might have an opportunity to escape unobserved to the town of Lee where he has friends, and where he could learn whether or not his former wife was dead or alive, he not having been certain that he had killed her.

At dusk this evening Grasse visited Mount Hope cemetery, where he had a burial lot, and there he beheld a freshly made grave, in which the victim of the tragedy is to be buried on Saturday. He realized then that Mrs. Appleby was dead, and went to the house of Albert Watson nearby, where he discussed the shooting and asked for news of the search for him. Watson induced Grasse to give himself up, and without serious objection Grasse accompanied him to the police station.

The entire police force at Bangor, 29 deputy sheriffs and other officers of Penobscot and other counties have been searching for Grasse since Wednesday.

ELIOT.

First Presentation of "Out of His Sphere."

Last evening at the Congregational vestry the Eliot Dramatic club gave a most enjoyable entertainment, the drama "Out of His Sphere" being the attraction. The plot of this drama centers round Jedediah Blood, a farmer with a home and family worthy of appreciation by anyone, but on account of a habit of discontent which has been growing on him he grumbles and finds fault with everything, imagining himself the most unlucky of mortals.

One stormy evening a rich man is obliged to take shelter in the Blood home, and he notices Jedediah grumbling and with Mrs. Blood conceives a plan to cure him. After he has been rendered unconscious in his sleep he is taken to the rich man's home and put to bed. When he awakens in the morning he is amazed to find his surroundings entirely unknown, and a man and woman servant to wait on him, whether he wants them or not. His dilemma is laughable in the extreme and he calls for his wife to straighten him out. She enters dressed in the height of fashion, calling him by an unknown name and disclaiming any knowledge of their former home and the children. He is told state of mind is the result of too much champagne and gambling the night before. Finally at the close of a day of bewilderment to Jedediah, he is again put to bed and returned to his home in an unconscious state. When he awakens the second time, he thinks it is a dream and takes timely warning of his bad habit of discontent and vows hereafter to be a different man. The characters were all well taken. Mrs. Blood (Emma Frye) was patient with her husband in the first act, and in the second act assumed all the spirit and dignity befitting the wife of a disgraced sick man. James A. Coleman as Carl, the Dutch servant, assumed his role in the most natural and Dutch manner imaginable, his comings and goings being especially funny. Mr. Abbott as Markham, a rich man, was the impersonation of affability and philanthropy, while John, his servant, (Francis Dixon) and Mary Mower, the maid, (Jessie Rideout) each carried out their part successfully. The bickerings of the two children, Lucy and Thomas Blood, as portrayed by Elizabeth Hanscom and Albert Dixon, were as natural as life. Ernest D. Seales as Jedediah was the central figure and he held the audience in mirth and sympathy the entire evening. The cast of characters:

Jedediah Blood, a farmer..... E. D. Seales
Thomas Blood, his son..... Albert Dixon
Carl Schmidt, his hired man..... J. A. Coleman
Mr. A. Markham, a rich man..... H. P. Abbott
John, his servant..... F. E. Dixon
Mary Mower, his maid servant..... Miss J. Rideout
Betty Blood, wife of Jedediah..... Miss E. Frye
Lucy Blood, his daughter..... Miss E. Hanscom

There was a matinee performance for children this afternoon and the drama will be given again this evening. Everyone desiring an enjoyable time should see this laughable drama, so cleverly impersonated by the several members of the club.

Mrs. Albert Libby of Roxbury, Mass., is the guest of relatives here.

Mrs. Dyer and baby daughter, Ruth, have been the guests of her parents, J. H. Dixon and wife.

The Denver Trio are certainly making a hit at the Portsmouth Theatre judging by the applause accorded to them each evening. Tonight is their last appearance.

ALL NAVY YARDS SHOULD BE RETAINED

Special Board of Officers Opposed to Any Central Yard--Impossible to Get As Good Conditions As Exist Now.

That the existing naval stations are not too numerous and that all should be retained and developed to the full extent practicable, because altogether they are far from adequate to the needs of the fleet and because any scheme to establish an efficient naval base in a short time is chimerical, is the substance of a report of a board of officers appointed to investigate this subject. The board declares that in deck capacity, pier development and shop equipment the existing resources are far more inadequate than is generally realized. It declares that any plan for the development of a new navy yard in less than a considerable number of years is visionary and can appeal only to those of the most limited experience. For these reasons it is urged that whatever plans may be formed for the establishment of new yards there now in existence be maintained and developed to the full extent made practicable by the appropriations of Congress.

Regarding the scheme to establish a new yard in supplant the New York yard, in Brooklyn, the board points out that while it may be necessary in time to vacate the Brooklyn yard to establish a substitute in New York harbor, the question of where such a yard should be located should be considered carefully and at length, and the possibility of such a change should not be permitted to interfere with the orderly development of the Brooklyn plant.

The board of officers recommends the use and development of such yards and stations as are now in actual operation. It is considered unwise to delay the construction of absolutely necessary improvements at any of the existing yards. The mere fact that some of them may be abandoned, it is held, does not justify the failure to keep them in condition to do the work of which they are capable. It is estimated that it would cost many millions of dollars to develop any great station to a point where it would embody all the military and industrial advantages now possessed by even a majority of the separate navy yards. The efficiency of the fleet, it is contended, must depend on the development of the stations now existing, since it is the existing yards and not the possible ones which must be considered. It is not believed that any nation will ever possess a naval station combining all the advantages of the existing yards which an ideal station should have.

GERMANY MAY SEEK AMERICA'S CUP.

Probably Depends Upon the Showing of New Yacht Ordered by Emperor William.

Hamburg, Germany, Oct. 10.—Emperor William today ordered from Max Oertel the well known yacht builder of this city, a new schooner to replace his present racing yacht Meteor, and her successor will have an important bearing on the question whether Germany will challenge for the America's Cup with a cutter designed by Oertel. Max Oertel was the designer of the last Meteor, as well as of the German, "belonging to Gustav von Krupp von Bohlen und Aschbach, and several other fairly successful seventy-five foot yachts.

The new schooner for the emperor is to be built at the Krupp works at Kiel and probably will have less waterline than her predecessor, which was forced to concede heavy things at lowances to competitors.

The emperor has the fullest confidence in Oertel's ability and has ordered the new boat without waiting for the launching of the new yacht under construction by Herreshoff for Robert E. Todd of the New York Yacht Club.

PAY TRIBUTE TO REBEL'S LIFE

Twenty Thousand Socialists Attend Funeral of German Leader in Switzerland.

Zurich, Switzerland.—August Bebel, the German Socialist leader, was given an impressive funeral here. Twenty thousand Socialists followed the body from the city hall, where it had lain in state, to the cemetery, where it was cremated.

The streets through which the procession passed were densely crowded. A majority of the Socialist members of the German Reichstag and representatives of the Socialist party from most of the unions of the world attended the funeral. Morris Hillquit of New York represented the United States.

There was a long series of addresses before the body was incinerated. Mr. Hillquit said that socialism was introduced into the United States by August Bebel.

German immigrants and that the American Socialists were greatly indebted to Bebel and the German Social Democrats. There was a great upon air meeting, attended by thousands of persons, at the conclusion of the funeral services.

The ashes of Bebel were placed beside those of his wife, who died a few years ago.

HARE PAPERS FOR 4 CENTS

Autograph Letter of Peter the Great Found in Sausage Shop at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg.—The story of how documents worth thousands of dollars were sold for four cents has just come to light. The documents in question were autograph letters of the Czar Peter the Great and they were discovered in a herring and sausage shop, where they were being used as wrappers.

Peter the Great had a long correspondence with Count Tolstoloff, the president of the government mines in the Ural mountains, over the question of the disposal of the riches contained in the mines. These letters of the czar were bought up by the count to the official museum of the mines in Ekaterinburg. The present management of the mines recently uncovered the idea of selling all the old deeds, but they did not feel called upon to satisfy themselves as to the contents and purport of the literature unearthed. The deeds were all lumped together and three weeks ago were put up at auction. The whole of the supposed "waste paper," which was really worth scores of thousands of pounds, went for four cents.

The buyer was the proprietor of a large number of provision shops, including some sausage shops. One day a professor who was an antiquarian noticed that the girl behind the counter in one of these shops was wrapping up his sausage in a peculiar kind of paper with a crown on it. He looked at it more closely and soon saw that he held in his hands a most important autograph letter of the Czar Peter. He went at once to the sausage dealer to find out how this extraordinary literature came into his hands.

ANY MAN IN LOVE MAY LIE

Supreme Court Justice Says He Is Justified in Falsifying to Win One Woman.

New York.—When a man's in love he cannot be deemed responsible for anything he says to win the only woman in the world—the woman he adores.

So the learned Supreme Court Justice Guy ruled here. To quote the justice:

"It is also a well-known principle that in the state of mental exaltation accompanying courtship, statements made as to mental, moral or financial qualifications of the accused may not be too closely scrutinized, nor they be held to a strict accountability therefore."

Philip Chusick fell in love, courted the fair Hilda. In a state of mental exaltation he told her, she roars, that he was a chauffeur earning $30 a week; that he had $1,000 in bank.

The truthful Hilda married him only to learn that Philip was a property boy at the hippodrome at $18.00 per week. Discovered, Philip fell into mental depression so deep that it engulfed him. He vanished.

"With great regret," Justice Guy said, he denied Mrs. Chusick's request for counsel fee and alimony.

LEFT ALL TO ONE EMPLOYEE

Woman Cut Off Her Relatives and Gave Reasons in Will for Doing So.

San Francisco.—Mrs. Ellen Sessions, who died recently at her home, 3103 Clay street, at the age of seventy-six years, left a will which made William E. Jackson, her former employee, heir to almost her entire estate, amounting to considerably over $40,000. Her relatives she cut off with the statement that they never assisted her, and to one, a sister, whose married name she never knew, she bequeathed one dollar. The will begins thus:

"I left my native place when I was quite young, visited there a couple of times since, but from my relatives I have never had any assistance or consideration. When my husband died in 1894 he left me a draying and trucking business which it was impossible for me to carry on without assistance."

"I selected one whom I considered to be a good steady man, namely William E. Jackson, to carry on the business under my direction. He proved all that I expected him to be—steady, attentive, industrious and efficient. The result was that the business disposed of at a loss was carried on at a profit from the time of the death of my husband until the present time, out of it I have made a considerable sum and a nice support."

The will is dated February 25, 1907. Jackson died in October, 1911, leaving about $50,000. The present estate will therefore go to his relatives.

HEAT MADE MAN CLIMB POLE

From Hell to Heaven the Trip Planned by a Heat-Crazed Pennsylvanian.

Chambersburg, Pa.—His mind affected by the intense heat here, Mack Shurrer, thirty years old, was found sitting on the 46-foot flag pole in front of the Friendship Engine house. He was praying at the top of his voice. Persons aroused from their sleep hurried from their homes scantily clad. In spite of their coaxing Shurrer would not descend. Asked where he was from he answered: "From hell."

"Where are you going?" "To heaven."

It was learned that the man had wandered about town all night. When he was finally persuaded to descend he was put in the care of a physician.

BOY GIVES UP 21-MILE SWIM

Harry Ellonsky, Comes Within 300 Yards of Making the Very Distant Goal.

New York.—After struggling in the water 15 hours and 31 minutes in his attempt to cover the 21½ miles between the battery and Sandy Hook—Harry Ellonsky—Preparing to Dive.

Ellonsky, a nineteen-year-old swimmer from New London, Conn., was obliged to quit within 300 yards of his goal, because the incoming tide was too strong, and because his attendants following him in a rowboat, were so seakick that they could not help him to navigate any further. The young swimmer, who weighs 265 pounds, came nearer to accomplishing the feat than anyone ever did. Ellonsky seen in the photo ready to dive, after his swim, stated that next year he would attempt to swim the English channel, and feels confident after his long swim of the 19th that he could make the England-France trip. In order to benefit by the ebb tide, he started from the battery, New York, at 1:09 p. m. and at 3:30 p. m. had passed within the last red buoy off Sandy Hook.

Long Beach, N. Y.—The regular life guards went on strike here and have been succeeded by a volunteer corps who number about a dozen millionaires in their ranks.

SALISBURY

MURDERERS STILL AT LIBERTY

Newburyport, Oct. 10.—State officers Wells and Buslis came to this city late last night and called at the local police station where they enlisted the cooperation of the force. Then they made a search of every car on the railroad siding in both the freight and passenger yards looking for the men who attempted to rob the Salisbury Postoffice yesterday morning and killed constable Willie W. Heath when he attempted to capture them. Through the search was a most thorough one, no one was found.

The state officers then went over to Salisbury and searched the posse that was engaged in guarding every road leading out of the town. Additions had been made to the number of state officers on duty at Salisbury. Those there today are Wells, Flynn, Barrett, Buslis and Hardyman.

Wells said this morning that they had no intention of giving up the search in Salisbury, he believed that with the roads guarded as they were from the time the crime was first reported, the fugitives had no chance of escape but were still in hiding in the woods or in some barn that they would soon be obliged to show themselves or would be uncovered.

Two men were taken from a freight car in Salisbury during the night and although they gave a pretty straight account of themselves they were brought over to the police station in this city and are still detained there. The men said they are painters and belonged in Lawrence.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are the Voices of Portsmouth People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are public praising Doan's Kidney and bladder pills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home paper. Portsmouth people are in this chorus. Here's a Portsmouth case.

James Pickles, 11 Burket St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I was afflicted with kidney disease for several years and was unable to find relief from dull pains in my back until a few months ago when I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Pharmacy. Often I had such acute twinges across my loins that I could scarcely move. The kidney secretions contained sediment and were so frequent in passage that I was obliged to arise several times at night. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me from the first and continued use effected a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn, Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States."

GAMBOA DIKE BLOWN UP BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Washington, Oct. 10.—Exactly at 2 Eastern time, this afternoon, President Wilson, presiding a button in the White House sent an electric current flashing more than 4,000 miles over land and under seas to blow up the Gamboa Dike in the Panama Canal and remove the last practical obstacle in the great inter oceanic waterway.

SEEKING EXPERT ADVICE

Clayton D. Mell of the U S forest service calls Thursday from New York for British Guiana to inspect green heart timber to be used in the construction of docks and other marine works for the Panama canal. He goes at the request of the Isthmian canal commission, in order that the engineers may be sure that they are getting genuine greenheart timber, for which a number of inferior substitutes are offered.

Genuine greenheart has the reputation of being the most resistant wood to the attack of marine borers and to decay. Borers are especially bad in tropical waters. The wood is, in addition, hard, heavy, and durable, and not subject to damage from impact and wear. Indisputable records show that the best grades of this wood surpass iron and steel as to lasting qualities in contact with salt water. It has been known and used since 1778. Logs have remained intact under water for 100 years. Lock gates in English canals have been made of it for years, and the only limit of their durability so far has been the length of service of their iron bolts and fastenings, which usually can be renewed without much trouble.

Greenheart in Liverpool lock gates built in 1866, removed to allow a deepening and widening of the ship channel in 1894, was used over again when the gates were reconstructed. The sills and fenders of the lock gates at Panama will be made of green heart, and much of the docks will be constructed of the same material.

Nansen's ship, the Fram, and the antarctic vessels, Discovery, used by one of the Scott expeditions, and the Gauss, used by Drygalski, were all planked with greenheart.

The exceedingly great durability of the wood is said to be due, at least in part, to the presence of an alkaloid which is used as a substitute for quinine, the basis of quinine.

A number of other woods which grow with greenheart in the tropical forests of the Guianas resemble it so closely that they are likely to deceive even an expert. They have many of the qualities of the genuine timber, but in a lesser degree. Some are quite inferior, and it is essential that they should be avoided. In order that the canal commission may be sure of the right wood, it asked the forest service to assist it in an investigation of the greenheart situation in British Guiana, and Mr. Mell's present trip is a result of that request.

From the Isthmus of Panama Mr. Mell will go directly to Demerara, British Guiana, the principal port of export for greenheart. He will be accompanied by a member of the commission, and will see all the operations of lumbering in order that the true greenheart may be selected and identified without possibility of error. He will ascertain where the genuine can be obtained in sufficient quantities and right sizes, find out what substitutes are to be avoided, and prepare specifications which, incorporated in purchase contracts, will eliminate everything but genuine greenheart.

ADVENTURE IN SOUTH SEAS

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—Arriving yesterday from Tahiti on the liner Ventura, the captain and crew of the wrecked barkentine Amaranth, which was lost on Jarvis Island, brought no word of the American barkentine Amaranth, also reported wrecked on Jarvis Island. This confirms the previous supposition that there was an error in transmitting the names and that the Americans, long missing, went down with all hands. The survivors of the Amaranth told a romantic story of adventure. With Captain C. W. Nelson on the Amaranth's last voyage were his wife and baby in arms.

Fourteen days the crew spent in the wrecked vessel boats on the

PIRATE FIGHTERS

Tells of Six Years in Chinese Customs Service

A man arrived at the Waldorf recently who spent six years looking for pirates and smugglers in the Far East. He is J. J. Rule, an American, who is assistant manager of the Standard Oil Company in Canton, China, and under the Imperial government he held the rank of mandarin of the sixth class. This was awarded him as the result of a fight on the West river some ago, when he helped fight and capture a lot of pirates who were about to seize a river steamer, says the New York Times.

Mr. Rule has lived in southern China seventeen years and a good part of that time he has spent in the China Customs Service. He speaks Chinese fluently. He says he would feel as safe in the interior of China even during a revolution as anywhere else in the world, because a foreigner who speaks the language and knows Chinese customs is secure when traveling in the country away from the seaboard.

"I left Canton the latter part of May," said Mr. Rule yesterday. "That was of course before the last revolution came up. Business at that time was about normal considering the state of affairs that then existed."

"Pirates on the Pearl river? Well they call them pirates, but they are hardly pirates of the old school, such as used to prowl about the coast of China. You see, a gang of them gets some information that a certain steamer is carrying treasure and they get on the boat as passengers at some inside information that a certain steamer is carrying treasure, and it gets on the boat as passengers at some port, and then, after overpowering the crew and beaching the craft, the pirates take to the shore and scatter all over the province. It is next to impossible to run them down collectively."

"I had to come into contact with some of these fellows when I was in the Chinese customs service. I was on duty up the West river for five years, and then for a year and a half I was on the frontier back of Maens. That is where most of the smuggling is done, and we had to keep a sharp lookout for opium coming in and also for junk going out loaded with contraband grain. We had a mixed band of Indians and Chinamen as guards and they used to say that one of our men was employed to keep the other awake. But since the dispute with Portugal over the boundary of Macao I understand they have come to employ only Chinese."

"This happened in those days, the hottest time we had with the pirates was at Samshul, when I was on duty up the West river. A lot of cut-throats had gone on board a steamer at Wanchow, ostensibly as passengers bound for Hongkong. We had word that they intended to take possession of her, so the Chinese harbor master and I with a small force of men went on board to arrest them. As we reached the steamer the pirates opened fire, and there was quite a little shooting within a few minutes. We killed two of them and wounded one, but the harbor master was wounded. However, we captured 14 men. The harbor master afterward received the decoration of mandarin of the fifth class, and at the same time I was made a mandarin of the sixth class. This would have been a lot of use to me had I remained in the service. That fight lasted only about 15 minutes, for we were soon surrounded by gunboats and there was no way for the pirates to escape."

"I like Canton better as a place of residence than Hongkong, because from it it is easy to get into the country. We have only eight or nine Americans in Shanghai, the foreign concession. I was in Canton through the other revolution. In fact, I was senior lieutenant of the Shanghai defense corps, but things soon got beyond us and British and Indian troops were sent to protect the settlement."

MEXICAN BARBARITY

Many Foreigners Victims of Atrocities of Present Revolt

With the gradual spreading of revolutionary activity in parts of Mexico, hitherto less unaffected, tales of atrocities and indignities to foreigners after in Mexico City in increasing number. Early in July these had become so common that whereas a year ago they would have caused great indignation and possibly prompt representations by foreign governments, it is doubtful if they receive now more than inclusion in a possible claim for damages in due form upon the Mexican government.

An experience related by passengers on a train proceeding northward from Torreon appears to place a certain conception of the northern rebels in a class with the followers of Zapata of the south on the score of barbarous treatment of their victims.

The train was stopped near Gomez Simo by a hurried bridge. A band of intoxicated rebels or bandits swooped down upon the passengers, robbed them of everything, including clothing and shoes, and then, after a brief and brutal treatment of their victims, hid in the party, was taken out and shot. He fell severely wounded. An Englishman of whom was demanded a diamond ring he wore, and which he had difficulty in removing, was assisted by means of a knife. The finger was chopped away so that the ring could be obtained. The passengers were eventually allowed to go and walked miles to Torreon.

Another experience growing out of an effort to escape a worse fate, was that of a group of Americans, refugees from a mining camp near Topolobampo, Sinaloa. There were three women in the party, which made its way to the coast town. To catch a coming steamer due to an uncertain date, the refugees had to put out to an island sparsely and without a house or tree. Its only inhabitants were sharks and the stench of decaying shark flesh was next to unbearable. For two days the refugees endured great hardship and discomfort and then an American gunboat appeared.

A boat was sent off but the officer in charge had orders to take only employees of a certain mining camp. Nine were accordingly taken aboard, and the rest, including the three women, waited two days longer, when almost in despair, they were picked up by the coasting steamer, described as a filthy affair, already overcrowded which landed them at Mazatlan.

President Huerta it is said has great confidence in the ability of his new cabinet to aid him in his work pacification, but he expects them to develop their attention to the work of their respective departments and not let their departments dwell upon his seat. This he made quite clear to them at the first formal gathering of the new administration.

To them Huerta said after the usual felicitations, that he expected each minister to be supreme in his own post so far as possible and that they would him. But, on the other hand, warned them to "Cuidarse Con La Pintura" a legend often seen on new edifices in Mexico, meaning "watch out for the paint."

To his puzzled ministers who asked him to explain the President said, pointing the back of his chair he customarily occupies at his cabinet meetings, "I mean that this old chair suits me very well for the present, you should not try to improve it. Pay attention strictly to the duties of your offices, and I shall manage to look after mine."

THE THICK FOG STILL BLOCKS ALL SHIPPING

Woods Hole, Oct. 10.—Daybreak this morning found no rent in the thick fog which has arrested all kinds of shipping along the Cape. This, the ninth day of the fog along the coast of Cape Cod, breaks all records for this time of year or, in fact, at any other time of year in the memory of the oldest sailors on shore.

For the past nine days 20 ocean going tugs have been tied up, and the barges which they are towing to Boston are anchored in the sound with over 150,000 tons of coal in their holds. After trips full of danger the tugs made this port and are leaving this morning for Vineyard Haven to take on supplies of coal and water, having completely exhausted those supplies while waiting for the lifting of the fog. This fleet will be the largest that has ever steamed into the Haven at any one time in the history of the port.

The revenue cutter Gresham came to this port yesterday relieving the cutter Acushnet. The Gresham received word about 4 o'clock that a Boston bound fisherman had gone ashore at Pama River, near the life saving station at Truro, with a crew of 14 men. She immediately left for that place in spite of the dangerous fog. No word has been received from her as yet.

The steamer from Nantucket to this place has surprised local mariners by making the trip each day, despite the fog, but the captain of that vessel does it because of the fact that there is absolutely no danger of running another vessel, as there is probably not another bit of shipping going on for miles in this vicinity.

To the life saver and the residents along the coast here the fog has presented some interesting experiences. The members of the life saving crew at this place, many of whom have been traversing the beaches for 25 years or more, and are supposed to be acquainted with every nook and corner of it, have been lost for hours at a time. It is impossible at times to see 10 feet ahead, and yesterday afternoon two of the men were completely lost for nearly two hours.

A resident of Sandwich, while fishing for eels yesterday, was forced to spend the night in an open boat rather than take chances rowing in the fog to land. He started fishing in a creek not a quarter of a mile from his home, and the fog, which at the beginning was rather slight, thickened to such an extent as to cause him to lose his sense of direction. He waited till daylight this morning, suffering much from the dampness and exposure.

Shippers tied up here are wishing their heads off that the Cape Cod Canal was completed as it would have saved them rounding the Cape, and make the fog less dangerous.

A BIG BAKING IN KANSAS

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10.—Fire that destroyed the six-story plant of the Southwestern Milling Company in Kansas City, Kan., early today, and burned 25,000 bushels of wheat and 15,000 barrels of flour, caused a loss estimated by C. M. Harterbergh, manager of the mill, at $600,000.

The men who were at work on the top floor, were believed to have perished were found to have left the building safely. The cause of the fire is unknown. The mill had a capacity of 3000 barrels of flour and employed 100 men.

MAIL CARRYING BY AUTO

When the contract for carrying the mails below Forty second street, awarded to the Postal Service Transfer, Inc., went into effect a short time ago, says the New York Sun, all the horse drawn mail wagons were taken off and 100 new motor trucks were installed in their places. There are eighty three ton and twenty two ton trucks now in service and they are expected to do twice as much work as the horse drawn trucks.

The transformation thus brought about may best be seen at the General Postoffice on Mail street. Before the advent of the new autos Mail street was usually crowded with horse drawn mail wagons and trucks. The new autos take up much less room.

Then the horse drawn mail wagons were most of them old and worn in the service. Being new the autos are freshly painted and look spick and span. They carry a heavier load, get under headway quicker, are easier of control and make better time than the horse drawn wagons.

THE D. F. BORTHWICK STORE

Will Be Opened Tuesday, Oct. 14th.

By a special arrangement with the Butterick Publishing Company, Miss Thompson, chief instructor at the Butterick School of Dressmaking—the most successful school of practical dressmaking in the world—will be at this establishment for two weeks at least, beginning October 14th.

Miss Thompson will show you how to plan, cut and make your own clothes thoroughly, completely and successfully.

Miss Thompson will teach you the newest methods and finishing touches employed by the great Paris and New York dressmaking establishments.

This will be the first school to be conducted by them outside of New York City and is at our solicitation. We believe it to be a very great opportunity to obtain a knowledge of practical dressmaking with the use of paper patterns.
